

IAC Releases New Version of Online Application

ENHANCEMENTS INCLUDE STREAMLINED APPLICATION QUESTIONS, A MORE USER FRIENDLY FORMAT

DECEMBER 2011 | In following the philosophy as your partner in quality, the IAC is pleased to make available the latest version of the IAC Online Accreditation application. Applicant facilities will benefit from the many enhancements:

- A decrease in case study requirements; three abnormal cases are now required in each area the lab is applying in. Please visit the Case Studies section for new requirements»
- Streamlined and enhanced application questions
- Direct links to the IAC Standards within most questions, providing easy access to the related requirements and recommendations
- Capability to upload all required attachments including final reports and worksheets – resulting in timely, cost-effective and environmentally friendly submissions
- Enhancements to the way in which Online Accreditation collects and stores identification information, specifically National Provider Identifier (NPI) data and Medicare enrollment numbers for each participating laboratory

To experience the enhancements to the IAC Online Accreditation application as a new user, those facilities that have previously accessed the IAC accreditation materials should simply log in at www.iaconlineaccreditation.org using the username and password previously provided, or contact the IAC staff to obtain this information via e-mail at online-app-help@intersocietal.org.

Facilities that have not yet applied for accreditation by one of the IAC divisions, should visit www.intersocietal.org/vascular/seeking/your_account.htm and select Create An Account to obtain access to the new IAC Online Accreditation application.

For facilities already in the process of completing the IAC Online Accreditation Application, contact the IAC staff for assistance in determining whether you wish to upgrade to the new version at this time.
